

November 10, 2020

Matthew Teitelbaum
Ann and Graham Gund Director
Museum of Fine Arts, Boston

The employees of the Museum of Fine Arts have long worked together to preserve, promote and protect its outstanding collections. As priceless as they are, so is the talent, dedication and hard work which makes it possible for the Museum to share these riches with people from every walk of life, from all over the world.

The Museum Independent Security Union (MISU) of the MFA takes pride in the working relationships we have always enjoyed with other departments. We welcome the unionization of the professional and administrative staff. We urge the MFA to allow them to make their choice to organize freely, without interference, and to bargain in good faith with their union. Our guard union was started in 1995, and we have learned that organizing our workforce is the best way to achieve the goals and objectives we share with museum leadership.

MISU looks forward to standing together with the MFA Union, to strengthen the MFA as an institution and an employer.

Respectfully,
John Storrow
David Skirkey
John Moore
Jim Kowalski
(MISU Leadership)
Museum of Fine Arts, Boston